TYPOGRAPHICAL IN NATURE A RESOLUTION

At a regular meeting of Colorado Springs Typographical union No. 82, held yesterday afternoon, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has come to the notice of the Colorado Springs Typographical union No. 82 that several labor unions of the city, including the Federated Trades council, have declared the Colorado Springs Gazette unfair; and

Whereas, The said Colorado Springs Gazette now and always has employed none but members of labor unions in all its departments, now therefore be it

Resolved, That the said unions, and more especially the Federated Trades council, have acted in a hasty manner, and by their actions have given a direct insult to the Colorado Springs Typographical union, and all other unions connected with the Gazette; and be it further

Resolved, That the Colorado Springs Typographical union considers and declares the Colorado Springs Gazette to be a fair paper; and be it further

Resolved, That the delegates from the Colorado Springs Typographical union No. 82 to the Federated Trades council be directed to use all honorable means to secure the removal of the boycott by the Federated Trades council on the said Colorado Springs Gazette; and be it further

Resolved, That in the event of the refusal of the Federated Trades council to remove the boycott, the delegates report immediately to the president of Colorado Springs Typographical union No. 82, who shall call a special meeting to take action of this matter, which is considered vital to Colorado Springs Typographical union's welfare; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this union and be given to the daily press and the Labor News for publication.

Mr. Purdin took sometime with his note. At 7 o'clock the same boy returned with an answer. Mr. Purdin had stationed himself in the rotunda and was expecting it half an hour before it arrived.

One of the bell boys was inquisitive. "Kid," he said to the boy, "where'd you come from?"

The cheerful idiot's eye grew cunning.

"Whath it to you?" he lisped. There was a scuffle and the book was taken out of his hand. Written across the page was "Miss Elva Votaw, 735 E. High street."

CHAPTER V.

Which Brings the Romance Up to Date.

This chapter is devoted to straightening out the tangled threads.

It should be explained that Miss Votaw was not at "735 East High street;" that the given address was a blind and the messenger, in the person of his cheerful self, was a party to the deception, for Miss Votaw deemed it wise to still be cautious.

A young man found the house after a door to door canvass last night. There is no such number of "735." At No. 331 he rapped for 10 minutes, aware that as he stood silhouetted against the electric light he was being scrutinized from behind the draperies at the door.

Finally a voice, tremulous and scarcely distinguishable, said:

"What do you want?"

When he explained that he desired information about the romance, the door was opened exactly half an inch. The voice became sweet in its clearness.

"You must not say a thing about this—oh, dear, isn't it dreadful!" the voice said.

"But, are you going to be married? Are you still the fiance of Mr. Purdin?" persisted the visitor.

"The trouble is settled—yes."

"Elva, Elva, what are you doing?" came another voice from the gloom within, and the door was closed with a bang.

This was mysterious.

Who was the custodian exercising such authority?

The presumption was that it was the friend of the aunt whose duty it has been to keep Miss Votaw hidden. It rests with Miss Elva to tell how she sent the two notes so cleverly to the Antlers and received the answer; a greater mystery, in the face of the story told by her aunt, is why, just as Purdin was leaving the city, she overcame her objections and said she would meet him this morning at 7:30 o'clock?

Again, why didn't she write before, mailing a letter, to put the suitor from Fremont out of the suspense that has been causing him sleepless nights and busy days?

Purdin doesn't know. He was too happy last night to speculate.

"We will meet in the morning and be married," he said. "My suit, unfortunately, has been opposed by Miss Votaw's aunt, and she has made it very unpleasant. She practically kidnaped the young woman, but now that I have received the message from Miss Votaw, nothing will deter me from marrying her. I am a reputable and, I am safe in saying, a respected citizen of Fremont where I am in business and where I have any number of friends who will substantiate my statements. I came to seek the hand of Miss Votaw with the full and free consent of her people, and it is not a matter of interference by Miss Caldwell."

The Sunday Be[illegible] W[illegible]

At the First Baptist church last evening the Rev. Dr. Franklin delivered a strong sermon in which he discussed civic righteousness. He told the story of Christ's tears over the city of Jerusalem and said that conditions in Colorado ought to be such as to make the Master sad if he were now upon earth. But there were many things in our cities that would not make him happy. There were the brothels and gambling places and the saloons. There should be no place for these iniquities in this fair land of ours. That they were here was due to the indifference and neglect of the average voter to his duties as a citizen.

As to Colorado Springs the speaker said there were many things which should not be tolerated and instanced drug store liquor drinking as one of them despite the fact that every dare to Colorado Springs property prohibited this. The city ordinances also prohibited it. That such a violation of the law was permitted was due to the fact that Christian sentiment was not sufficiently aroused to do its duty on election day.

He spoke, he said, not from any party or partisan standpoint. But he believed that only by an aroused public conscience and the ballot of a Christian ballot could we secure men in public office would not use such offices for political ends and for private gain.

At the Cutler Memorial Presbyterian church last night, the Rev. Herbert A. Jump paid a tribute to the Young Men's Christian association of this city. In the course of his sermon, Mr. Jump said:

"The Young Men's Christian association is an evidence of the power of [illegible] of young men to rise into our cities. In the evening Dr. Pipkin spoke on "Seemingly Right, Yet Wrong." There were two baptisms after the close of the service. The evening meetings will continue during this week beginning at 7:30 o'clock each evening.

A large audience filled nearly every seat last evening at the First Congregational church. Dr. Gregg gave the third of his series of sermons on "The Test Ways of Living," the subject being "The Best Way of Married Life." The ways were set forth as the way of goodness, the way of love, the way of fatherhood and the way of motherhood and the way of constancy. The orchestra gave much pleasure by rendering [illegible]

NEW MEN AND NEW METHODS.

THE ATTITUDE of the Republican party in this campaign has been that of apology and of defense.

It apologizes for the acts of some of its office holders and defends the record of others whose record apparently needs defense.

It declares that its party only makes occasional mistakes and these should be condoned.

If this were the case an indulgent public might be willing to compromise the good work of the city by keeping that party in power.

But it is not the case.

The corruption is deep-rooted and continuous, and indicates that there is something vitally wrong in the party which has so long controlled this city.

That something is in the system of selecting office holders; in the rule of the few leaders rather than the party will.

Thus it happens that the machine through its powerful control has given us office holders who may have been good men at heart, but who have proved, when placed in charge of the people's business, weak, inefficient and corrupt. In some good politicians but bad business men.

Let all votes be reserved as to the future.

If the people want different methods to prevail, they must overthrow the machine and its candidates.

They may say to these men:

"You have done your evil work long enough; we will have a change."

The only question, therefore, to be settled is: Are there enough independent citizens of this city who will say by their actions next Tuesday: "We want new men and new methods and these we will have!"

THE TREE PROBLEM IN THIS CITY.

MR. JOHN P. BROWN, the editor of Arboriculture, and an eminent authority on trees, has given attention to the problem in Colorado Springs.

He has little use for the cottonwood because of its brittleness, its williness and the fact that it requires so much water to prolong its comparatively short life. It must be given a great deal of attention, also, in the way of pruning.

Mr. Brown believes that the solution of the tree problem in Colorado Springs lies in planting the maples instead with some exceptions. The maples grow very rapidly, are very hardy, do not need as much water as cottonwoods, are much handsomer and in every way preferable to cottonwoods. They are likewise a cheap tree and pretty grown. The wood is hard and strong and can be made into furniture, which is the cost would be useless.

The chief objection to the maples is that it is short-lived, but for this Mr. Brown would plant the sugar maples between the maples so that when the latter begin to die out down the latter trees, the maples will be of good size. In a word, a end will result in lasting beauty and shade to the city for years to come.

Mr. Brown believes that the situation in Colorado Springs is the simple one of a shallow forester where it may be it will be to see the present trees are gradually pruned and when they have outlived their usefulness they be replaced in a systematic manner by old and hardy trees.

MR. MAXWELL'S NOMINATION.

[illegible] the senate is holding up the [illegible] of Mr. Maxwell as a judge of the court of appeals, and that a [illegible] has determined to refuse confirmation.

Such action on the part of the senate is open to serious criticism unless in the judgment of that body Mr. Maxwell is absolutely unfit for the position, and no such contention can be seriously made. A Democratic senate would naturally prefer, to see a Democrat occupy the position made vacant by the retirement of Judge Wilson, but a Republican governor has the undoubted right to nominate a member of his own party and the duty of the senate is to confirm such nomination unless there exist reasons, other than political, for its failure so to do.

The belief on the part of the senate that there are other eligible men better qualified or that the governor could have made a wiser selection, furnishes no valid reason for a failure to confirm in view of the well-settled principles governing the relations between the two departments of government. Such a procedure will if carried out form a precedent which is dangerous and which will remain to vex those responsible for it.

TAXATION OF MORTGAGES.

THE NEW YORK legislature is seriously considering a mortgage tax bill, which provides for the taxation at the rate of four mills per annum of all mortgages resting upon real estate in the state of New York. The Empire state, like all others, is suffering in the matter of non-assessment of personal property. Only about $500,000,000 of personal property is assessed, while it is known that there are $2,500,000,000 outstanding in mortgages alone.

The assessment proposed in New York is not a severe one, and the assessor ought to be able to get these mortgages, because nearly all of them are made a matter of record. The counties in which the real estate is located will receive the benefit of the tax. Where the mortgage pays the tax imposed by the bill, it is thereafter exempt from all other taxation.

This experiment in taxing mortgages will be looked forward to with a good deal of interest, not only by the public, but by all tax-gatherers and officials charged with the raising of revenue.

LET THE WORK BE THOROUGHLY DONE.

IT IS a mistake to think that if independent Republicans vote for a part of the Democratic ticket, that all the evils of graftin in the city hall system will be wiped out.

The election of a few will help, but not all the wrongs can be remedied in this way.

The thing to do, therefore, is to make a clean sweep. Get out the men who have been standing in a hard and fast ring for years and using the people's money to line their own pockets and serve their own party ends. Put in men who will not be dominated by any clique, faction or boss. Such men are the candidates on the Democratic ticket. They will work with an eye single to honest and economical city government.

And only by having a majority of such men in the city offices can the work be done.

NO BUSINESS ABOUT IT.

THE TAXPAYERS have not been used honorably in the matter of the new city hall.

The limit on the building was to have been $125,000 when the council ordered the first bond issue.

No sooner had they got this sum than they proceeded to put up a building that requires $50,000 more for its completion.

Such methods are tricky to put it in the mildest way.

A council that doesn't know enough to decide upon its building plans and specifications before it asks for money to pay for the building isn't fit to have charge of the people's business.

Such methods indicate gross mismanagement or a willingness to be used by private interests.

The man who says "I always vote the straight ticket," is not a good citizen. He has lost his independence. He takes whatever medicine his party chooses to give him. Why should a party name its best men if its members always vote the straight ticket?

With Van E. Rouse in the mayor's chair, we shall have a man who knows his duties from beginning to end and who cannot be hoodwinked or cajoled by any man or set of men. His motto will be "the city first and the party last."

Why should a citizen "stand by the party" when the party does not stand by him? He turns the city's business over to certain members of his party and they betray their trusts. Surely a mere party obligation ceases at that moment.

Every voter is justified in looking for honest and capable men to carry on the city's business, no matter where he may find them.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM—1903.

The Democratic party of Colorado Springs, in convention assembled, declares that more than ever before in the history of our city there is need of the exercise of a wise and patriotic citizenship.

For years our city has been in the hands of an unscrupulous ring of machine politicians who have plundered the city treasury and have administered the city government solely to their own interest and without any regard to the public good.

The same machine controls the Republican party today and is the only menace to the future welfare and prosperity of our fair city.

It would make us blush to charge that even our ancient enemy, the Republican party, except through its machine, favors such flagrant violation of the law, such shameless defiance of right and such incomparable incapacity to conduct municipal government, as have been exhibited by Republican city officers in the past years in this city; but we do charge that the Republicans are directly responsible for the condition of affairs that exists and has existed, by electing and continuing in office year after year, the [illegible] of officers, backed and moved by the machine, and a continuance of this condition is again possible.

WE PLEDGE OUR CANDIDATES, IF ELECTED, TO GIVE THE CITY A THOROUGH AND BUSINESSLIKE ADMINISTRATION, FREE FROM ALL PARTISANSHIP, AND DEVOTED ENTIRELY TO THE PUBLIC WELFARE, EVERY DOLLAR OF THE PEOPLE'S MONEY TO BE ECONOMICALLY EXPENDED AND EXTRAVAGANCE IN ALL DEPARTMENTS TO BE CONDEMNED AND AVOIDED.

WE DECLARE OURSELVES TO BE ABSOLUTELY OPPOSED TO SEEKING REWARDS OR PRIZES AS REWARDS FOR POLITICAL OR VICE AND WE MAINTAIN THAT FITNESS ONLY SHOULD BE THE QUALIFICATION FOR ALL POSITIONS UNDER THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

SHORT STORIES

Trust Opinion.

"John," asked the lawyer's wife, who had recently taken up the health-culture fad, "is it best to lie on the right side or the left side?"

"My dear," replied the legal luminary, "if one is on the right side it usually isn't necessary to lie at all."—(Chicago News.

O'Neill's Masterpiece.

The Nebraska senate observed St. Patrick's day by considering a resolution offered by a member—who was born in England—commending the policy of King Edward toward Ireland and congratulating the Irish people on the dawning of a golden era for them. After several of his fellow members had spoken in favor of the resolution, Senator O'Neill, of Lancaster county, took the floor and eloquently said:

"Every man should be proud of the land of his nativity, whether he was born there or not."

We are glad to be able to add that no more speechmaking was necessary. The measure was adopted with a whoop.—(Chicago Record-Herald.

A Disappointed Wardar.

"I want me money back fur dis paper," said the broad-shouldered man with the horseshoe pin.

"What's the trouble?" asked the young man at the newsstand.

"I've been done. I see de headline, 'Uprisin' of de Boxers,' an I pays de entrance fee. Dere ain't a word in it about Jeffries or Sharkey—not nobody but a lot of Chinamen."—(Washington Star.

A Change Had Come.

"I had a man cleaning out my cellar last fall," said a coal dealer the other day, "and two or three times during the day or two he was around I caught him looking at me with the greatest reverence and admiration. I couldn't speak to him without his taking off his hat and bowing down. I wanted the ashes carried out last week, and as the same man happened to come around I gave him the job. There was no longer any reverence or bowing down. On the contrary, he soon found excuse to differ with me, and after catching him up pretty sharply, I added:

"I can see a great change in your demeanor since last fall."

"No, sir—the change is in you," he replied.

"How have I changed?"

"You are no longer H. be gosh!"—(Detroit Free Press.

A Slum Worker's Queer Discovery.

"On one of my doing-good excursions" remarked an enthusiastic slum worker, "I came upon the queerest case. She was a maiden all forlorn, very evidently, and the neighbors told me if I could wake her up to a sense of life and beauty I'd be doing a great thing. It seemed her malady was unrequited love. By a little gentle questioning I found it was not so serious, after all, and I made her see it that way. Said I: 'Really, he's no doubt as fond of you as you are of him and, once his bashfulness wears off, you'll have nothing to complain of.' But she insisted that she was right, and told me I did not understand. I begged her to explain. 'It's like this,' said she. 'He swears hard at everybody he likes. He swears harder than anybody I know, especially to them he likes. But to me he's that milk-and-watery anyone can tell he never gives me a thought.' 'Goodness!' thought I. 'We all have our troubles, but who'd ever imagine a maiden pining away for someone to swear at her?'"—(Philadelphia Record.

In Mourning.

His wife had been dead but a few weeks, when a young farmer living near Reading, a typical Berks county German, made good the deficiency and married again. That there should be no violation of the proprieties, however, was soon made plain by his treatment of the bride's mother, whom he drove to town on the following Sunday.

"What!" he exclaimed, "you think I ride out wit another woman so soon after the death of my wife? No!"—(Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A Profitable Dog.

"Expect they had some fine dogs at the show," remarked a man to Gubbins, "but I have a dog at home I wouldn't exchange for the best of 'em."

"What breed is he?"

"Don't know exactly, but call him a coaly."

"Collie, you mean?"

"No. I mean just what I say—coaly. Money wouldn't buy that dog. He's a cut, but we couldn't keep house without him. You see, several years ago I trained him to bark at the railway trains as they passed our house. Well, he annoys the railroad men so that every driver and stoker on the line has sworn to kill him. Oh, he's a valuable dog."

"I can't see where the value comes in."

"You can't? Well, you could if you were in my place, and had all the coal you could burn and some to sell thrown right at your back door free of cost."—(Tit-Bits.

"A Pardonable Error."

The stories told in "the profession" of Mr. Brookfield's scathing repartee are endless. On one occasion a young actor who had lately made a bit of a hit in a small part was regaling a few friends at great length upon the "splendid notices" he had received and the various merits of his performance. At last Brookfield quietly remarked: "But, my dear sir, you are not really at all good in the part. I have never seen you do anything well, but in this particular you are simply naughty."

"Indeed!" said the young man, bridling up. "I suppose so distinguished a critic as yourself would deny my being an actor at all!"

"I certainly should," said Mr. Brookfield.

"Then what would you call me?" asked the young man, a little recklessly.

"Well," said Brookfield, with a smile, "I think I should describe you as a pardonable error."—(Pall Mall Gazette.

Then He Looked Elsewhere.

When Buck Kilgore was in congress a constituent of his from Texas loomed up in the main doorway of the house and asked:

"Is Kunnel Kilgoh on he floh?"

"No," replied the doorkeeper, "Kunnel Kilgoh is not on de floh. He went out dis doh a minute ago, and won't be back no moh."

The next day, says the Baltimore Herald, the doorkeeper was ready to accept a responsible position with the Capital Traction company.—(Washington Post.

COLORADO COMMENT

Colorado Springs is to be the mecca for the official crook. Three defaulting treasurers and a building inspector caught short in his accounts in rather a rapid pace for a burg like the Springs. These little things are liable to occur often when the offender is patted on the back and told to go along and be good in the future. The Springs people will eventually learn that a crook is a crook and keep them out of office in the future. When a man's ward-heeling propensities are the only requirement for official recognition the funds are going to suffer. Colorado Springs has experienced this several times.—(Cripple Creek Daily Press.

President's Trip.

President Roosevelt is speeding westward on his vacation trip and is being greeted by thousands of his admiring fellow citizens at every important stopping place. Although familiar with western scenes and western customs, the trip cannot help giving him a broader conception of the magnitude and wonderful possibilities of the great empire lying west of the Father of Waters.—(Fort Collins Courier.

Forestry.

The State Forestry association has gone to work in earnest. It is offering three prizes for competitive Arbor day tree planting by the public schools of the state—$25.00, $15.00 and $10.00. The offer is made through the state superintendent. The conditions on which the awards will be made are set forth in the Arbor day annual now being distributed to the schools.—(San Luis Valley Graphic.

A Fact.

The Colorado Springs Gazette states a fact when it says: "The riches of Colorado, especially the mineral riches, are stupendous and almost inexhaustible. This is especially true of coal. Despite the millions of tons that have already been taken out of the earth, the ground has barely been scratched. This is a great state to live in, and the longer people remain here the better they like it."—(San Luis Valley Graphic.

Settled.

The Colorado City and Cripple Creek strike has been compromised and settled, thanks to the efforts of Governor Peabody and the men who have so heartily seconded his efforts.—(San Luis Valley Graphic.

What is Needed.

What we need to make us a strong race of American citizens is to belong to few secret societies, learn the value and power of a dollar, prepare for and defend our lives and our homes against mobs, contend in the last ditch for our civil and political rights, deal honestly with all men and especially those of our own race, respect, honor and encourage a higher moral race standard, love these United States of America, our home and let the world know that we intend to stay here and make it a happy home.—(Pueblo Standard.

Billy Mason.

If ex-Senator Billy Mason was as sound on the Philippine question as he is on the vice presidential matter he would not be an ex-senator.—(Telluride Journal.

Expensive.

The congress just ended cost the country something over a billion and a half dollars. It authorized the expenditure of $1,654,168,514, including the permanent annual appropriations amounting to upward of $132,000,000. Government is expensive, but we must have it.—(Morgan County Herald.

Good Crops.

While the people of Colorado rejoice over the accumulated moisture in the form of snow beds in the mountains, stored by nature for the needs of crops and pastures during the coming summer, there is much depends on the planters and ranchmen—putting the seed into the ground in proper season, cultivation at the right time and careful saving of harvests—to insure the greatest profits. By working hand in hand with nature, there seems to be nothing to prevent raising one of the best crops Colorado has known for several years.—(Jefferson County Graphic.

For Hoppers.

A new industry is promised Utah. The legislature passed a law offering one cent a pound for grasshoppers.—(Telluride Journal.

In Utah.

Utah's new senator's first vote was for the Cuban treaty which admits sugar free of duty. The reception the Utah beet growers are preparing for him will make the anti-Mormon crusaders who are after Smoot's scalp look like thirty cents.—(Telluride Journal.

Germans.

Germany has sent us a large proportion of her middle and lower class population and we have promptly converted them into high class Americans. Now she is sending us quite a number of her higher officials and nobles.—(Leadville News-Dispatch.

Fine Outlook.

Never before in the history of the San Miguel region have the opened and operated mines of the district awaiting the spring season been in so good shape for an active, prosperous and progressive campaign, never before have the inquiries from eastern capital for opportunities for promising investment been so numerous and so earnest, never before has the outlook been more promising for the mining and stock growing industry of the lower and western portion of the county and all are devoutly hoping and praying that the community may be permitted to take full advantage of these promising conditions and make a material advancement during the year that shall give to our section a position second to no portion of the state. Only one thing can operate to hinder or miscarry the benefits that await the reaping. Let us all work to avoid this one danger.—(Telluride Journal.

Abundant Snows.

The people of Colorado are rejoicing over the abundant snow-fall and plenty of water for irrigation, while those of the Mississippi valley are in momentary danger of ruin by floods caused by this same abundance of snow. It isn't safe to talk irrigation to them. Even the Lord can't please all the people all the time.—(North Fork Times.

Cleveland.

Grover Cleveland is a great blessing to the newspapers. Every newspaper of every political hue can each take a shot at him without offending its readers.—(The Pueblo Valley.

IDEAL PLACE FOR CARPENTERS HOME

Mr. Meyer Is Impressed With Colorado Springs, and His Visit Here May Have Important Results —Today's Program.

"I think that such a large organization as the Carpenters and Joiners International union should by all means have a home for its old and indigent members, and I think that Colorado Springs is an ideal place for such a home," said Hi Meyer of San Mateo, Cal., now at the Alamo last night. Mr. Meyer is a member of the executive committee of the International union of Carpenters and Joiners. "The union would have had a home long ago if it had not been for the lack of proper means to carry the project through," continued Mr. Meyer. "Now that the question in regard to the home has been started I believe that the matter will be pushed, and while I cannot speak for the committee or the union, I do believe that Colorado Springs has all the advantages that should characterize the location of our international home. The city has great scenic attractions and with its great water supply and health giving atmosphere, it should be an ideal place for the institution."

Mr. Meyer is stopping in the city for a day or two en route from his home in San Mateo to Indianapolis to attend the annual meeting of the executive committee which convenes on Friday. He passed through the city on Saturday on route to Cripple Creek but returned yesterday morning to this city. While here, he will be the guest of the members of the local Carpenters union No. 515 and of the Colorado City union No. 417. Yesterday he was driven around to the various points of interest and paid a visit to the Printers home. "I was agreeably surprised to find out how nicely the institution is run. It is a credit to the Typographical union. It is the only national home of any labor organization in the country, and should be held up as an ideal one by the other unions."

Tonight Mr. Meyer will meet the members of No. 515 and No. 417 at Weber hall. A business meeting will be held followed by an informal reception in his honor. Mr. Meyer is not in the city on business connected with the proposed carpenters' home, although the proposition to erect such a home will be taken up at the meeting of the executive committee this week.

As Mr. Meyer is on his way to attend the meeting of the committee and the home proposition is to be discussed at this meeting, the local carpenters are doing all they can to point out the many advantages that this city has, as a location for the home, feeling that this action will acquaint the committee and the members of the craft all over the country with the fact that this city means business and wants the home to be located here. No definite action will be taken by the committee at its meeting according to Mr. Meyer, as this will not be done until the biennial international meeting is held this fall.

Mr. Meyer's visit is for the purpose of conversing with the members of the craft in the district and gathering statistics and receiving suggestions that will tend to give him as a member of the executive committee a better knowledge of the affairs of the union here. "I am making these visits," said Mr. Meyer, "to impress the members of the union with the fact that they must be always on the lookout for information in regard to the workings of our organization. The members of our union must know that they must hold together and that they must work for organized labor first, last and all the time."

Mr. [illegible] will leave tomorrow for Denver. From Denver he will go to Kansas City and then on to Indianapolis.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION MAKES APPROPRIATIONS

Finance Committee Is Instructed to Bring in Donations for Local Campaign Fund, and Donation on Place of Cummings Monument —Delegates Elected.

Colorado Springs Typographical union No. 82 held its regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon. An appropriation to make a campaign to secure the headquarters of the International Typographical union for Colorado Springs was made. The present location is at Indianapolis, but a change will probably be made at the coming convention to be held in Washington. The local committee will cause to be circulated to every union throughout the country circulars calling attention to the fact that Colorado Springs wants the headquarters and it is expected that a large number of the delegations will use their efforts to assist in the movement. The local committee having this matter in charge is composed of H. A. Holton, J. B. Sidger, Thomas McCaffery, H. A. Johnson, R. T. Fahey, W. C. Macmiller and John F. Jones. It is expected that assistance will be forthcoming at the proper time from the chamber of commerce, as a donation has been asked for.

The union yesterday elected delegates to the Allied Printing Trades council recently organized. The delegates selected were B. M. Burndollar, J. B. Sidger and Thomas McCaffery.

An appropriation of $25 to be used as a part of the fund for the erection of the memorial to the late Amos J. Cummings was made. This memorial is to be erected at the Printers home in the near future. When Mr. Cummings died he held a card in the union paid up to August, 1905. He was a long-time friend of unionism and was an old-time printer.

The annual election of officers will take place Wednesday, May 20, and at that time a delegate to the national convention will be chosen.

Man Who Shot Neighbor Is Now Behind Bars

Because he made too frequent use of his Winchester rifle, Carl Fugit, a ranchman, living several miles to the east of the city, is now confined in the county jail awaiting the action of the Fountain authorities.

Fugit had been working on his ranch for the most of the winter and had not been to the city for several months. He decided to come to town Saturday night and shouldered his rifle. He had to go through Fountain on his way to Colorado Springs, and while there, it is alleged, he partook of too much liquor with the result that he had visions of imaginary foes, seeking to attack him. Witnesses state that he began firing off his Winchester, scattering pedestrians in all directions and creating a reign of terror. He finally subsided after the streets had been cleared, and a few venturesome inhabitants came to brave the encounter with him.

They had read stories of the James boys' bank raids and had visions of a hold-up in their quiet hamlet. A scuffle ensued in which they attempted to capture the excited ranchman, but he managed to escape and made his way toward this city. News of the matter was sent to the police here who captured him about noon yesterday. He had no rifle with him when taken, but he had a rather ugly cut on his neck over which the blood had gathered in dry clots. Under direction of Chief King he was taken to the county jail where he will be kept until the authorities at Fountain are heard from.

Democratic Campaign Is Warming Up

As election day draws near the political situation in Colorado City grows more and more interesting and the fight between the Good Government people and the Independents continues to wax warmer. A great deal of enthusiasm has been injected into a campaign which at the start was expected to be dull and uninteresting. From the time that the Liberal or Citizens ticket was placed in the field until its withdrawal there was considerable uncertainty as to the lineup of the citizens of the town, but now that the line has been drawn between the two parties and the issue is more clearly defined both parties are using their best efforts to carry the election.

The issue upon which the campaign is being conducted is claimed to be a moral one by the Good Government people and a practical one by the Independents. The Independent ticket is made up largely of those in office at the present time, although the candidate for mayor, Henry Ellithorpe, has never held office in the city. He has been an active worker, however, in political affairs for a long time. The Good Government ticket is composed of men who promise that if elected they will conduct the affairs of the city upon a higher moral standard than under the regime that has been in power for the past two years.

The candidate for marshal on the Good Government ticket is a well-known union man and his opponent, George Birdsall, has been marshal during the past two years.

MANUFACTURER OF WELL-KNOWN SHOE IS VISITING IN THE CITY

E. P. Reed, accompanied by his wife and niece, are registered at the Antlers hotel. Mr. Reed is the head of the firm of E. P. Reed & Co., Rochester, N. Y., manufacturers of the famous Reed shoes for women. Mr. Reed and wife are returning from California where they have been for some time past. They are combining business with pleasure, stopping off in the larger cities throughout the west to meet the customers of the firm.

Pelta's department store of this city carries a full line of Reed's famous shoes for women, and this morning Mr. Reed will personally visit this growing establishment. W. B. Wood, the popular Colorado salesman for the Reed firm, is also stopping at the Antlers. Mr. Reed, accompanied by Mr. Wood, will go to Pueblo this afternoon, after which they will return to this city.

Mr. Reed is one of the oldest and best known shoe manufacturers in the United States, having been engaged in the business for almost half a century. Probably no shoe is more widely known than the Reed.

Distinguished Unitarian Divine Preaches At Sol's Church

Rev. Charles E. St. John of Boston, secretary of the American Unitarian association, spoke at the All Soul's Unitarian church yesterday afternoon. Dr. St. John is on his way to his home in Boston after touring the western and Pacific states, preaching in the principal churches of the denomination. His address yesterday was on "The Work of the Unitarian Denomination." In beginning his remarks, he first spoke of the strength of the denomination in this country, in Great Britain, in Holland, in Switzerland and in Hungary. He then spoke of the belief of the denomination in the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man and in the eternal life. "This is the gist of our faith," said Dr. St. John, "to give a broad interpretation of life to enable men to realize that they are within themselves something of the life eternal. If we expect to win men we must give them a larger grasp of the meaning of life.

"The present century undoubtedly marks the beginning of a great revival which will be different from anything that we have ever had before. It will be anything for the coming revival of religion to be like those carried on by Wesley and his fellow workers, because the needs of the world are different. It will be a revival of interest in religion along the lines of liberal religion and it will be ethical in character."

In closing his address, Dr. St. John said that the task before the Unitarian fellowship is to be ready to carry on this great work.

Dr. St. John delivered the installation sermon in the Unity church at Pueblo yesterday morning. Rev. Alva Roy Scott, pastor of All Souls church, was present and accompanied Dr. St. John to this city.

After the address at All Soul's church, Dr. St. John met the members of the church at an informal reception given in his honor. Tea was served.

Dr. St. John left last evening for the east where his tour is about completed and he will go almost directly to his home in Boston. As secretary of the Unitarian association he makes an annual visit to each district of the church in this country. This is the first time he has ever been in Colorado Springs.

The president of the association is Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, a son of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard college. Dr. Samuel Eliot will attend the international Unitarian conference, to be held in Holland in July.

STREET CAR COMPANY ANNOUNCES IMPORTANT CHANGE IN TIME AND TRANSFER SYSTEM

D. L. Macaffee, superintendent of the Colorado Springs and Interurban railway company, announces several changes to take effect this morning on the Manitou line. This is done in order to give better service to the people living between Tejon street and the depot.

The new cars will arrive after the hour in the Santa Fe depot instead of at Manitou. Northbound, they will leave the depot on the present schedule, that is, on each hour and every 10 minutes thereafter during the hour, and will leave Pike's Peak and Tejon streets about four minutes later. Cars will arrive at Manitou and leave there, eastbound, on the present schedule, but, coming west, cars will pass intersecting streets in Colorado City and the west side from two to four minutes earlier than at present. Manitou cars will leave Huerfano and Tejon streets for the Santa Fe depot at five minutes after the hour, and every 10 minutes thereafter.

Transfers will be issued from Manitou cars east and westbound to Wahsatch and Institute cars northbound, at the intersection of Pike's Peak and Wahsatch and Institute cars southbound to Manitou cars either east or westbound at the same point. Transfers will be issued from Manitou cars eastbound to Knob Hill and Prospect Lake cars at the Santa Fe depot, and from Knob Hill and Prospect Lake cars westbound at the same point. Transfers will be issued from Manitou cars coming from the depot to any line northbound or southbound on Tejon street, and going to the depot transfers will be accepted at Huerfano and Tejon streets from cars north or southbound on Tejon. All other transfers will be issued as at present.

TRAIN TO SUMMIT OF PIKE'S PEAK

An effort will be made today to run the first train of the season to the summit of Pike's Peak, although it is by no means certain that the top of the peak can be reached, on account of the heavy snowfall during the past week. The train can be run to within a short distance of the top, which will afford a day of sleighing for the visiting tourists who are now stopping at Manitou. It is stated that the snowdrifts will be above the cars. In many instances and as there is an unusual amount of snow all along the line the trip will be well worth taking.

The rolling stock has been overhauled and the cars for weeks and the engine will be put in shape for the first trip.

[illegible] LOOK [illegible] THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW

Closing Hours of the Fourteenth General Assembly Will See Fight on Five Measures, the Moore and Stephen Bills, Opportune Opinion of Attorney General Miller.

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER, April 5.—The closing scenes of the fourteenth general assembly will be a [illegible] precipitated by the house [illegible] bill, both No. 1. The [illegible] Senate bill, introduced by Representative [illegible] and the other by Senator [illegible]. Five measures have caused [illegible] wrangling between the two legislative bodies, and many predictions have been made as to the ultimate ending. It is felt that a climax is about to be reached, interest is intense, and everyone is asking how the trouble will end. The house has been holding up senate bills, the eight-hour bill in particular, waiting to see what action the senate would take on house bills. Republicans are interested here in general appropriation bills which cover the majority of the state's expenses for the coming two years, and are anxiously awaiting the senate's action on this bill.

The senate's finance committee reported on the bill today, recommending many reductions. The total amount has been cut many thousand dollars, although the exact reduction has not been made public. The Republican [illegible] will probably be incensed at this action and retaliate by leaving the eight-hour bill out in the cold, either killing it outright or by compelling its death in a roundabout way by keeping it off the calendar. Representatives do not relish the prospect of going on record as being against the bill, and will keep it from being considered if possible. The legislative session ends Friday night, and if anything is going to be done in the matter, it must be done quickly. The house has taken up the greater part of this session killing measures demanded by the people, and so this body's past action on eight-hour work day seems a thing of the distant future.

Bill Is Worthless.

The most recent information given out in connection with the eight-hour bill is the opinion made public last night by Attorney General Miller that the Stephen eight-hour bill, as amended by the senate, is worthless in its present form. "I will oppose it in every way," Stephen declares. He says he will not tolerate the omission of camp mills and leaching works.

Mr. Stephen was later informed by the attorney general that the omission of a few words, intentional or not, made the bill of no value. The point the attorney general makes is that the bill holds firms and companies responsible and not agents or officers of these concerns. This, he holds, invalidates the measure. When the attorney general considered the bill, he promptly saw a flaw in it. Section 2 of the measure provides that "Any person or persons, firm, copartnership, company." It is held that before the word "firm" should be the words "agents or officers of."

Industrial Lobbyists.

The attorney general declares that a company cannot be sued, that suit cannot be brought against a corporation, only by making its agents or officers the defendants.

Opportune Opinion.

The bill's death will not be because stamp mills or leaching works are not embraced by the measure, nor because the corporation combine members in the house are determined not to live up to their pledges and promises. It can be charged directly to corporation lobbyists. They have labored industriously for the bill's defeat, and, what is more, charges have been made and with much direction, that money has been used to greatly aid this influence.

Blow to Republican Party.

A most peculiar feature of the latest development in this case, the attorney general's opinion, is that the opinion should have been asked for at such an opportune time. Attorney General Miller's opinion was on the Stephen bill as amended by the senate, and the opinion was given two days before the end of the session.

The Stephen bill, as amended, is, according to everyone, Mr. Stephen included, exactly the same as the Moore bill. The Moore bill was transmitted to the house over two months ago, and not even a place on the calendar was given it.

Why wasn't the attorney general's opinion asked several weeks ago? Those conclusions arrived at by many point strongly to the reason that the bill's constitutionality and effectiveness were not wanted. The entire deal has been a put-up job from start to finish. It is not an impossibility, but a decided improbability that any eight-hour law will be enacted this session. The general opinion is that this bill's death will be the most severe blow the Republican party has received for many a day.

In the senate today the first Sunday session of the present assembly was held. Seven house bills passed on third reading and several committee reports were considered. The closing hours of the legislature will be shrouded in confusion. Legislators will be anxious to get their own bills passed, and from the convening until the adjournment of the legislative day intense excitement will prevail.

[illegible] C. D. Ashton and Mrs. Clara E. Williams End Their Lives—Latter Was Deranged.

Special to the Gazette.

PUEBLO, April 5.—C. D. Ashton, aged about 35, a stranger in Pueblo, was found dead this evening in a rooming house. He came here Saturday from Salt Lake City from Denver, and engaged a room. The landlady of the house expressed that something was wrong as he did not leave his room and she got a glimpse around him. After repeated knocking the door was broken open and Ashton was found lying dead in bed. He had made a careful arrangement for his death, placing $7 in money, his watch and a letter in plain sight. He had injected an extra large quantity of morphine in his arm and then wrapped a handkerchief saturated with chloroform around his head. In the statement which he left he did not place him in hopeless despair, but the accusation that faced him was false and based on a misunderstanding. He also stated that he had been very ill for about two years. The letter bore the address of 494 Charles street, Denver.

Clara Ella Williams, aged 23, died this morning early this morning by drinking carbolic acid. It is said that the woman has been mentally deranged for some time, but her family did not suspect that she would attempt to kill herself. She was sleeping with her mother when she took the poison. When discovered she was unconscious and although medical attendance was hastily summoned she died a short time afterward.

CARDINAL GIBBONS BETTER.

By Associated Press.

Baltimore, April 5.—Cardinal Gibbons, who has been confined to his room with a severe cold for several days, was so much improved today that he was physically able to deliver his usual sermon at the cathedral. His eminence's voice was not strong, but he was listened to by an audience that filled the edifice. His sermon was upon the value of ceremonials to religious worship.

His eminence was compelled to break an engagement which had been previously made, to address the boys at St. James home this afternoon. His physician thought it unwise for the prelate to leave the house after the delivery of his sermon.

CRUELTY GANG OF OUTLAWS.

By Associated Press.

Guthrie, Okla., April 5.—Sheriffs Morrison of Kiowa county, Thompson of Caddo, Potter of Garfield and Bottom of Washita, surrounded a ranch near Cordell, Okla., and within a brief time captured six of the remaining outlaws of the Bell Cluvey gang, supposed to have robbed the Ledger bank of $8,000 last Friday. The bandits were surprised and taken without trouble.

JOHN H. KETCHAM.

Washington, April 5.—Representative John H. Ketcham of New York, who has been ill for some time, was taken to New York city today. Though somewhat improved, the patient showed the effects of his sickness and was very weak. He was accompanied by several relatives and two trained nurses.

[illegible] Memorial Church, Denver, to be Rebuilt.

Trinity Memorial Episcopal church, at Curtis and Twenty-sixth streets, is to be rebuilt at a cost of approximately $35,000, on account of the rapid decay of the present structure. Anyone who has [illegible] heard by the Rev. Arnold G. H. [illegible], and the [illegible] and the vestry, indorsed by Bishop Olmstead. The present building is a memorial to Bishop Randall, and the new structure will be similarly dedicated, with the addition of the tower and chapel as a memorial to Bishop Spalding. The plans of the new building provide for a church seating 300, a Sunday school and hall in basement, the chapel seating over 100, and guild and choir room, and rector's room and is proposed to be built in light pressed brick with Rollins stone trimmings. Space is reserved on the lot for a future rectory. Plans have been prepared by T. MacLaren, architect, Colorado Springs.

[illegible] Are Line Up in Fight for Municipal Supremacy—Women's Club Election.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, April 5.—A great fight is going on in local politics this spring. While the Democrats have taken a decided stand, in closing down dance halls, dives and gambling in this city, about half the Republican candidates have come out openly for opening wide everything known, while the other half of the men on that ticket are on the fence.

The Republican party has been working a bulletin campaign, getting out small dodgers about every other day, asking the Democrats questions which are absurd. Yesterday the Democrats, not to be outdone on any score, issued a bulletin called the "Why" bulletin, in which a number of pertinent and some humorous questions are asked.

The answer to all of the questions being, "Ask the Republican bosses." On the bottom of the ticket they go one further and ask the question, "Why will the Republican ticket be defeated on April 7?" Answer, "Ask any law-abiding citizen."

The Women's club met last evening and after quite a lengthy meeting, elected officers for the ensuing year. The annual reports of the retiring officers were presented, and the president, Mrs. W. P. Heeds, delivered her valedictory address. The election of new officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. J. B. Gaston; first vice president, Mrs. E. M. Schoonhurst; secretary, Mrs. Robert Tilney; auditor, Mrs. William Harris; treasurer, Mrs. Howard P. Seeds. Delegate to the state federation, Mrs. E. M. Turner. At the first meeting in May the new officers will be given a reception following their installation.

A joint debate between Major J. M. Brinson, Democrat, and Geo. Eugene Engley, Socialist, will be held tomorrow evening, Monday, at the Grand Opera house. The subject of the debate will be "Socialism." Mr. Engley will take the affirmative and Mr. Brinson will take the negative of the question.

The funeral of Mrs. Harry J. Hamilton was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence on West El Paso, Rev. M. Keithley of the Presbyterian church, officiated. Members of the Kensington club and the Pacific circle, Women of Woodcraft, attended the funeral in a body. The interment took place at Mt. Pisgah cemetery.

City Clerk Weyand and deputy are closing up the books and records in their office, getting it in shape to turn it to the man who shall be elected next Tuesday.

NOTABLE MAN DEAD.

By Associated Press.

Santa Cruz, Calif., April 5.—George Gillett is dead at the county hospital, aged 80 years. He came to the United States in 1842 as a member of Lord Ashburton's suite to negotiate the Ashburton-Webster treaty for the northeast boundary of this country. He had been an inmate of the county hospital for 12 years.

EMPLOYMENT ST. PAUL WOMEN.

By Associated Press.

St. Paul, April 5.—Mrs. Fannie Spencer Wilder, widow of Amherst H. Wilder, died at her home in this city at an early hour today. Mrs. Wilder suffered from a complication of diseases and for several weeks had been gradually declining. Mrs. Wilder had been a resident of this city since 1861, was prominent socially and identified with many public charities. She leaves a large estate.

EMIL PAUR GOES TO MADRID.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, April 5.—Emil Paur has accepted an engagement to act as conductor of the Madrid Royal opera house. He will produce "Tannhauser," "Lohengrin" and "The Meistersinger." He will also give a series of concerts at the Madrid Philharmonic society. Herr Paur already has gone to Madrid.

ROOSEVELT FAMILY AT HOME.

By Associated Press.

Washington, April 5.—Mrs. Roosevelt and her children who have been on a cruise on the Mayflower down the Potomac river and Chesapeake bay returned to Washington this afternoon. A carriage from the White house met the party at the boat and they were driven to the White house. All the family are well and greatly benefited by the week's outing.

HIGHER WAGES CONCEDED.

By Associated Press.

Denver, April 5.—Subject to the approval of General Manager Russell Harding an agreement has been reached between Manager Edson and representatives of the Order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The new schedule gives passenger conductors and trainmen an approximate increase in wages of 12 per cent and freightmen an increase of 15 per cent.

THE WHITE HOUSE NOW FIT FOR A WHITE MAN.

The White house at Washington has a sentimental interest attached to it that is felt by every man, woman and child in the country, and the reconstruction of the historic building—that has been going on recently—has attracted universal attention. Charles Moore, clerk of the senate committee of the District of Columbia, furnishes an article for the April Century that gives a very interesting account of this restoration, as well as much information concerning the previous history of the president's home. The article is well illustrated.

The main problem the architects had to solve was that of retaining the architectural features of the White house and at the same time rebuilding it from cellar to garret. Besides, it was found necessary to do away with many inharmonious additions and clumsy perversions that had been created at various times during the last 100 years.

Mr. Moore says:

By the restoration of the east and west terraces the White house now rises from a stylobate 400 feet in height, thus greatly enhancing the dignity of the structure. The roofs of these terraces (which are level with the ground on the north) are surrounded with stone balustrades bearing electric lamps. Brilliantly lighted at evening, and adorned with well-trimmed orange and bay-trees, they form promenades and places for out-of-door enjoyment.

Now, on the occasions of large receptions, the guests drive into the grounds by a new entrance, opposite the west front of the treasury. Alighting at a spacious porte-cochere, they enter a corridor formed by the east terrace, where are boxes to accommodate the wraps of 2,500 guests, the limit of the capacity of the house. One finds on each side of the broad corridor ample dressing rooms, which take the place formerly given over to laundry and storerooms. From the corridor the guests proceed, by a broad flight of stone stairs, to the main floor of the house, which is entirely at the service of the guests. The hall, no longer an improvised dressing room, becomes an integral portion of the house, and instead of being finished as a thoroughfare, is treated with the large and simple dignity befitting the room which hereafter will command the access to the various state apartments. On entering the White house, the first impression one gets is that its size has been greatly increased; there is a satisfying air of spaciousness combined with dignity.

The reconstructed state dining room has paneled walls of oak, silver electric light fixtures, a great stone mantel inclosing an ample fireplace, and at the windows hangings of richest green velvet. Flemish tapestries of the 16th century, illustrating passages from the "Georgics" of Virgil, harmonize with the oak; and the richly carved cornice is further ornamented with heads of moose, deer and other animals from American hunting grounds. This room, enlarged by the addition of that portion of the corridor occupied by the private stairway, will accommodate about 100 persons at table.

The private dining room, with its domed ceiling, is treated in white with curtains of red velvet. The white marble mantel suggests those Italian mantels that were imported for both capitol and White house early in the 19th century; the chairs, the table and the mirror frames, all reproduce patterns representing the best workmanship of colonial days.

The red room, adjoining the state dining room on the east, has been set apart for use as a smoking room, except that, on formal occasions it falls into its place in the series of state apartments. The walls are covered with deep-red velvet, and many of the old portraits familiar to visitors find a place on them.

The blue room is the gem of the restored White house, as it is also one of the most finely proportioned rooms in this country. The pale blue damask has disappeared from the walls, much to the consternation of the ladies, for the color was believed to be universally becoming, and in its place is heavily ribbed silk of steel-blue, embroidered in yellow silk at ceiling and wainscot lines, with a narrow Grecian fret in which the star recurs.

The east room, Mr. Moore says, has undergone transformation and excites great admiration.

The offices having been removed from the White house, the public stairway has changed its direction, and stone stairs lead to the family living rooms. The president retains for his working room the old cabinet room, but the other offices are gone. The rooms that were once offices are now bedrooms.

The new executive building contains spacious quarters, a suite of rooms for the president, offices for his secretary, clerks, telegraph and telephone operators, etc., and for the press.—Chicago Journal.

BOY-GROWN CORN FOR SHOW.

Illinois Farm Lads Have Big Business on Hand With Fine Profit Ahead.

All over the great state of Illinois the farm-grown boys are preparing to produce the finest boy-grown corn that ever peeped from earth or waved its broad sword-leaves lazily in the prairie sunshine. Will R. Otwell, superintendent of the agricultural department of the Illinois exhibit for the World's fair of 1904, is responsible for this splendid burst of rural enterprise. The prize corn is for exhibit at the World's fair and Mr. Otwell has sent out 120,000 circulars announcing the conditions of the contest. Each boy in Illinois, whether he sees a circular or not, is entitled to 50 grains of the best white corn for five cents, and with those 500 grains he can enter the contest for prizes amounting in all to $2,500 in value. The corn is a quality that yielded last year as high as 95 bushels to the acre.

The scheme is wholly Mr. Otwell's. He has held two similar contests on a smaller scale in Macoupin county, Illinois, with great success. The first contest was held two years ago with 500 boys competing. The second year 1,500 boys raised corn and a very fine crop was played. In speaking of the present contest Mr. Otwell says: "In the World's fair contest that has now been [illegible] the success will be [illegible] the fact that [illegible] interest [illegible] to a [illegible] extent, [illegible] over the state, the [illegible] are far [illegible], and the fair is [illegible] than a county [illegible]. [illegible] will be [illegible] all the corn grown by these boys at the fair, and we hope to have the finest display ever seen in this country."

Some of the best known men in the state are included in the prize-givers. The Hon. A. L. Kerrick of Bloomington heads the list with the great sweepstake prize, a fine pure-bred Aberdeen yearling calf, valued at $700. The other prizes range in value from five dollars up, and are so attractive that every boy in the state will be delighted with them.

The plan is for the boys to deliver their corn to the county farmers' institutes in the county in which they live, and the president of the institute will ship the corn to Carlinville after the county institute is over, where is will be carefully packed and preserved until the fair opens in St. Louis. Each boy's name will be attached to the corn after the prizes have been awarded, and the display will be one of the most interesting at the fair.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES

One of the exhibits at the World's fair, St. Louis, which will attract universal interest will be the largest herd of domesticated bison on the American continent, owned by James Philip of Pierre, S. D.

Governor Odell of New York will attend the dedication ceremonies at the World's fair, St. Louis, accompanied by his staff and escorted by several regiments of state troops. An appropriation has been made by the legislature of $50,000 to pay the expenses of this trip.

A building for children at the World's fair, St. Louis, is proposed by the People's Fund and Welfare association of St. Louis. The plan is to have a building where the boys and girls may have headquarters and the expense of the construction to be borne by donations from children only.

The Western Passenger association has established the rate of one fare plus two dollars for a round trip to St. Louis during the dedication ceremonies of the World's fair. This action is expected to be followed by the eastern railway associations.

Sketches for the design of the mammoth bird cage or aviary to be erected at the World's fair, St. Louis, by the Smithsonian Institution, in which almost every specimen of the feathered kingdom will be able to live without restraint, have been submitted to Supervising Architect Taylor of the treasury department.

Ferran Zerbe, of New York city, has a proposition for a unique and interesting exhibit for the World's fair, St. Louis. His proposition is that a mammoth gold coin, the value of which would be $1,000,000, shall be manufactured under the direction of the treasury department. He proposes to make the coin a facsimile of the regulation twenty-dollar gold piece. It would be 40 feet in diameter and three inches thick. The eagle on the coin would measure nine feet from tip to tip of wings. Around the coin he proposes to place $1,000,000,000 worth of smaller gold coins issued by the United States government and to use $1,000,000 worth of canceled postage stamps to decorate the display.

It is announced from Washington city that the responses so far received from invitations to the diplomatic corps indicate that not less than 40 diplomats will attend the World's fair dedication ceremonies on April 30, next, representing nearly all the nations of Europe, Asia, Africa and the three Americas.

The Philippine exhibit at the World's fair, St. Louis, as outlined by the war department will include 1,000 natives established in typical native dwellings of many varieties on a special reservation, where fair visitors can study their modes of life, manners, customs, amusements and peculiar industries.

By Associated Press

Louisville, Ky., April 5.—The golden jubilee of the Young Men's Christian Association of Louisville, was celebrated here today, the chief speaker being President William R. Harper of the University of Chicago, who spoke on the "Addition of Religion to the Higher Life." In the course of his speech, Mr. Harper said

"The higher life is always associated with the individual. It manifests itself in many forms, yet all are clearly marked. The fullest vindication of this thesis, life stands out in a long list of men who have become famous in art, in [illegible], in philosophy, deeper and [illegible], perhaps, than art. Then there is an ethical purpose, or shall we say moral effort. We are striving toward the pure and beautiful and good or are falling away toward that which is ignorance and evil and darkness. The line between the higher and the lower life is not the same for any two men.

"My question is this. What has religion to do with this higher life? In my use of the word 'religion' I use it in the broadest sense. I am not referring to the church. The church service is of a variable character but religion is eternal.

"Poetry and art may brighten life, but they can never bring the one thing needed. The fact is that religion is of right and for itself and it cannot be divorced with art or philosophy."

PORTUGAL HONORS KING EDWARD OF GREAT BRITAIN

By Associated Press

Lisbon, April 5. The enthusiasm aroused by the visit of King Edward is boundless. A brilliant gala performance of "The Barber of Seville" was given at the opera house last night in honor of the royal visitor. The king Carlos gave a state dinner to King Carlos a great ovation. A grand state banquet was given last night at which 300 guests were present. A silver dinner service belonging to the Portuguese royal family was used on this occasion. It is said that the king of Spain is coming here to-day and that he Germany and will make a visit to Portugal in August.

RIOT IN CHICAGO

By Associated Press

Chicago, April 5.—Nearly 100 tried to drive his car through a parade which was blocking traffic in Halsted street, yesterday. Motorman Zoran was shot and mortally injured by one of the marchers. Nearly 1,000 Italians who were in the parade, broke ranks as soon as the shot was heard and began a riot following, throwing switching irons, bricks and other missiles were used. In response to a call, a score of policemen were soon on the scene in a few minutes, but before they could be [illegible] several persons were severely cut and bruised. Two of the Italians, who it is supposed did the shooting, were arrested.

KING EDWARD MAY MEET THE POPE

By Associated Press

Rome, April 5.—The chief topic of discussion at the vatican continues to be whether or not King Edward will see the pope. The ceremonial proposed that the king should start from the British embassy is much opposed, not because he would be starting from the residence of an ambassador accredited to the Quirinal, for the king once there, say the vatican authorities, it reaches to be an embassy to Quirinal the house of the sovereign, but because Cardinal Rampolla must return the royal visit to the pontiff and he would arrive at the house where King Edward having left, it had became again an embassy accredited to the king of Italy. It is suggested that King Edward on leaving the vatican should return to the British embassy, followed closely by Cardinal Rampolla who would arrive while the king was there. The objection against this course is that it would create precedent. The nuncio at Lisbon has been charged to sound King Edward on the subject.

HEAVY LIABILITIES OF AULTMAN MILLER COMPANY

By Associated Press

Akron, Ohio, April 5.—A statement has been sent out to the creditors of the Aultman Miller company, which went into the hands of H. P. McIntosh of Cleveland and George W. Crouse of Akron, as receivers, last night, showing that the assets of the company as fixed by a New York auditing company December 1, are $1,731,640. This is $134,000 short of the liabilities as they stood before that time.

George W. Crouse, president of the Aultman Miller company, is personally liable on over $1,500,000 of the indebtedness.

The creditors are numerous banks, those of Chicago holding more of the paper than any other one city. One Chicago broker had placed more than $111,000 of the notes.

The cause of the firm's trouble Mr. Crouse said tonight, was the ruinous business methods which competing companies for the last 10 years have followed, sending an army of men over the country to sell machinery to anyone who would buy, regardless of the purchaser's responsibility.

MITCHELL WILL CONFER WITH DISTRICT OFFICERS

By Associated Press.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 5.—John Mitchell, national president of the United Mine Workers of America, will be in this city or Scranton during Easter week or shortly afterwards to advise with the district officers of the anthracite districts concerning the appointment of a conciliation committee to assist in straightening out the tangle that has arisen over the different interpretations of the award of the coal commission. The district executive boards of the three anthracite districts held a meeting on Friday to take action on the commission award and after discussing the matter decided to postpone action until the advice and guidance of the national president could be secure. District President Nicholls said today that there were many matters awaiting the attention of Mr. Mitchell and that he expects the latter here some time during next week.

LOWELL TEXTILE WORKERS ARE STILL IN IDLENESS

By Associated Press

Lowell, Mass., April 5.—The second week of idleness for over 14,000 textile operatives in six of the mills here will begin tomorrow, and no change in the situation is expected. Some reports were current to-day that the Hamilton mills would open, but Agent Moulton declined to discuss the matter. Some cloth rooms are still being operated. The amount of unfinished goods on hand is not large and will furnish employment for only a few days. Officials of the Merrimack, Massachusetts, Tremont and Suffolk say their factories will shut down altogether during the coming week.

Albert Southworth, secretary of the Massachusetts Federation, who act for the state federation, is to visit the city to-day in Georgia.
